

Natural Product Reports

NPR articles are designed to give an interesting insight into the topic, focusing on the key developments that have shaped a field. Authors are encouraged to include their own perspective on developments, trends and future directions. Articles providing a very comprehensive overview or

Giovanni Appendino, Universita del Piemonte Orientale, Italy

Roberto Berlinck, University of Sao Paulo, Brazil

Carole Bewley, National Institutes of Health, USA

Christopher Boddy, University of Ottawa, Canada

Robert Britton, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Margaret A Brimble, University of Auckland, New Zealand

Mark Brönstrup, Helmholtz Centre for Infection Research, Germany

Guy Carter, Carter-Bernan Consulting, USA

Nadja Cech, University of North Carolina, Greensboro, USA

Russell Cox, Leibniz Universität Hannover, Germany

Pieter Dorrestein, University of California, San Diego, USA

Katherine Duncan, Newcastle University, UK

Neha Garg, Georgia Institute of Technology, USA

Susana P. Gaudêncio, Nova University Lisbon, Portugal

Olga Genilloud, Fundación MEDINA, Spain

Rebecca Goss, St. Andrews University, UK

Seth Herzon, Yale University, USA

Chambers Hughes, University of Tübingen, Germany

Marcel Jaspars, University of Aberdeen, UK

Martin Kaltenpoth, Max Planck Institute for Chemical Ecology, Germany

Andreas Kirschning, University of Hannover, Germany

Julia Kubanek, Georgia Institute of Technology, USA

Wen Liu, Shanghai Institute of Organic Chemistry, China

Sandra Loesgen, University of Florida, USA

Hendrik Luesch, University of Florida, USA

Dawei Ma, Shanghai Institute of Organic Chemistry, China

Marnix Medema, Wageningen University, Netherlands

Fidele Ntie-Kang, University of Buea, Cameroon

Sarah O'Connor, Max Planck Institute for Chemical Ecology, Jena, Germany

Jörn Piel, ETH Zurich, Switzerland

Jürgen Rohr, University of Kentucky, USA

Martin Schmeing, McGill University, Canada